REBECCA LI, VIVLI PERSPECTIVE FROM: VIVLI, GLOBAL DATA SHARING PLATFORM

- Global registries and data sharing policies are moving the culture towards greater sharing of Individual Participant level data (IPD)

- Various Platforms (such as Vivli, CSDR, YODA, IDDO and others) offer a mechanism for researchers to share data

- To move beyond

- Greater awareness of the data sharing platform resource offerings among qualified researchers

- Integration of datasets across various sources remains a barrier

- Data standards implementation

- For data sharing to be embraced, there must be concrete benefits for those that share and the access process user-friendly
